I also watched the third movie and was somewhat appalled at how much of a cop-out it was. I love a good cop-out. I don't mind it at the end of a movie, but the second movie had a great story and was entirely different. This third movie was a horrible choice and a massive letdown to all I was hoping for. Jai returns from his honeymoon looking completely undone. When his company gets a big order, he has to spend more time on the road and less time with his wife. When she is depressed, he sends her off to his mother's house, but when she isn't there, his boss has to take over the job. The movie ends with Jai floating lifelessly in the sea. I haven't gotten to the end yet, but I'm guessing he kills himself because he can't accept that he really is the last man standing and all his hard work has been in vain. I didn't like this third movie nearly as much as the second. However, I am guessing that they will eventually pay homage to the earlier ones and make the remaining two part of a series, where the first two would be episodes 1 and 2 and the third would be episode 4. Right now, I don't think they'll do that, but they do need to make the remaining two to complete the story, so that will either be alright or completely fail. Either way, it will be interesting to see.
